From the North.

We clip the following from the Owyhee Avalanche, of March 2d:

W. J. Hill of the Owyhee Ferry informs us of General Crook's movements. The rumor referred to last week had a little foundation. The campaign round Warner's Lake and the head waters of the Malheur is going on as first reported, though no big take in of Indians had yet been heard of. The command gobbled one small band of bucks the first day or so out from Camp Smith, which probably originated the rumor of a week ago. General Crook has not permitted a single band, big or little, to escape thus far in his operations. Big or little, the figures are rapidly increasing on the wrong side of the ledger for "Lo, the poor Indian."

Developments on the Dashaway ledge are encouraging. A shaft is down seventy feet and tunnel started south. A vein of good quartz is disclosed in the tunnel of over three feet in thickness. It assays richly. None has been milled.

The Oro Fino & Morning Star Mining Company expect to work its own mines the ensuing season. The Company had placed its property on the market, as the members thereof preferred other pursuits, and only become possessed of the mines to secure themselves against losses that otherwise appeared inevitable. The semi-annual meeting of the stockholders comes off on the 16th instant.

Beachy has been making a personal examination, this week, of the new route in course of improvement via Hall's Ranch and Forks of the Owyhee to Camp McDermitt. If found sufficiently advanced, he will proceed to stock it for staging at once. The bridging necessary may be delayed some on account of snow preventing teaming in South Mountain. The shortening of route proposed will save at least ten hours in time—provided the road is as smooth as the old one. The proprietors of the new road will do everything in their power to get the thing in a navigable way as soon as possible.

The reports from the Woodstock ledge are flattering. Work is continuing and the ore is showing richer.

Mr. Smith, who owned fifteen feet in the Hays & Ray ledge, recently made a sale of it in New York to P. F. Bradford, Esq., for $4,360—or $290⅔ per foot.

The Helena Herald, of March 2d, says:

On Thursday evening last, one of the Fortney brothers (from Wisconsin), engaged in drifting and sinking a shaft at the mouth of Montana Gulch, near Diamond City, was instantly killed by the falling of a bucket attached to the windlass and used in hauling up the gravel from the bottom of the shaft. We did not learn which of the brothers it was that had thus lost his life.

A SOUTHERN EDITOR'S REMINISCENCES.—The Memphis Avalanche, a journal usually very violent in its tone, indulges in the following chance bit of sentiment:

Late at night, while the fire and lamps burn low and dim, we lay down No. 10,039, vol. LXVIII., of the National Intelligencer, and lean back to think, overcome by the many memories which its familiar caption calls up. We have read it constantly for thirty-two years, minus the four bitter years of civil war, and had the good fortune to know its old editors, Joe Gales and Wm. W. Seaton, both great and good men, now numbered with the dead, but of immortal memory.

Not only of these princely gentlemen does the Intelligencer remind us, but of many, many another whom we were fortunate in knowing, and whom the country has lost—Webster and Clay and Crittenden; Dawson, the "Commodore," of Georgia, peerless at the dinner table; Rusk and Houston, Floyd, kindest-hearted of all living men; that noble gentleman, Butler, of South Carolina, Prentiss, worthy to be called Chrysostom, golden-mouthed, and not only beyond comparison the most eloquent, but the most genial and generous of men; large-hearted Tom Corwin; Keith, gallant and good; Badger, wise beyond other men, of admirable wit and always enamored of the truth; Severr and Douglas, Clemens and Quitman, with many a dear old familiar face of others less known to fame and even more beloved, crowd around us as we write; the dead mingling with the living; Porter of the Spirit and Inman, the artist, and glorious John Brougham, and Alexander Dimitry, large-souled as one of Homer's heroes and wise as Plato; Breckinridge and Bonham, Boyce and Robert Johnson, four men of like princely natures; all these and many like these we met at Washington in the better times, when the Senate of the United States sat in the old Chamber, and that city was the capital of both Northern and the Southern States.

Eheu, fugaces! how the years drift away, and we become garrulous, and forget that the long list of names, and the memories they call up, of "the refections of the gods" and times gone never to return, and scenes already dim as they recede into the past, have interest for no one but ourself! Nevertheless, it is written, it is a cry from the heart. Let it stand. Thank God, neither power nor malice can confiscate and sell for coin to knaves the happy or the sad mementoes of the past.

HARDLY WORTH WHILE.—A woman in Louisville, Kentucky, recently gave birth to a pair of twins—a boy and a girl. As she had no particular use for them at that early age, she sold them to her neighbors, the boy bringing two dollars in currency and the girl two pair of shoes. It would seem at such prices hardly worth while for the women to continue that line of business.

RUNAWAY.—On Saturday a pair of horses attached to a wagon, started from in front of the Theatre and brought up, before reaching Main street, against a post, which arrested their further progress. The only damage was the breaking of the pole.

A Canadian, named Gonyeaux, with his wife and three children, in a sleigh, attempted to drive across the river on the ice from Detroit to the Canada side, lately. When near the shore the ice gave way, and the whole party were drowned, except a little girl who sprang out and succeded in getting to land.

FIREMEN'S ELECTION.—A private dispatch from Virginia, Nevada, states that the Firemen's election held in that city yesterday, resulted in the election of Hugh Kerrin, Chief Engineer; J. W. Willoch, First Assistant, and Wanie Wright, Second Assistant.—March 4th inst.

The Storms and the Railroad.

The tremendous storms in the Sierras during the past few weeks, and the consequences which have resulted, have aroused apprehensions as to whether itwill not be found necessary, or at least advisable, to seek out other routes for the Pacific Railway, than that known as the Central. Notwithstanding the immense traffic and travel traversing those mountains and the great importance of keeping open communication, the latter route has been perfectly sealed since the 21st of February. Just what is the difficulty seems to be somewhat wrapped in doubt.

Immense sums of money and an untold amount of labor have been expended in grading, bridging, ditching, and hewing out a road between Nevada and California, yet for more than two weeks no wheeled or other vehicle has succeeded in making the trip. Passengers, freight and mails are delayed at the base of the mountains on either side. Some reports tell us of unparalleled depth of snows, others speak of land slides and avalanches bearing all before them, and still others intimate that the railroad between Cisco and Alta has not only been washed from its foundations, but for a part of the distance sunk out of sight. That the trouble is neither an ordinary nor an easily surmountable one is manifest, from the fact that the Central Pacific Railroad Company have several thousand men at work along the line, where the blockade exists, with teams, tools and all the necessary apparatus to clear away, at once, almost any obstruction. Yet we are unable to learn that they have yet been successful in opening up communication.

After the railroad is fully built and in successful operation, such a storm, with its results and obstructions, would be a very serious business. Now, there are wagon roads daily traversed through the passes and over the mountain heights. If wagons are not able to break through the snow, usually sleighs and sledges can freely travel over it. But when these roads shall be to a great extent abandoned and nothing left in many places but the narrow track of the railway, along the mountain side, a heavy storm of snow would be a serious obstacle, while any considerable land slide or avalanche, would obstruct travel for weeks and, perhaps, months. For a long time after the construction of the overland railroad had become an acknowledged necessity to the country, many feared that the storms of the Rocky Mountains would present an insurmountable barrier in winter. These fears experience has allayed, and the indomitable spirit of American enterprise has not been retarded by them. To the eastward of us, that is in the Rocky Mountains, even during this severe winter, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s coaches have been making excellent time and have rarely been delayed over a few hours between this city and Denver. The great difficulty has been, and we fear hereafter will be, in the Sierra Nevadas. That the Central Pacific Railroad will be built no one can doubt. The men who are engaged in it are not made of the stuff to be frightened or deterred from their great work by obstacles which human ingenuity, labor and determination can overcome. In their lexicon there is no such word as "let up." But that they have an herculean task immediately before them, and in prospective during each recurring winter, is equally true and apparent.

It may yet be found that in this instance, as in others, "the longest way round is the nearest way home." The route for a winter road to California, always open, and free of mountains and storms, snows and avalanches, is down the valleys of the Great Basin, trending westward, through the Utah settlements, via Pahranagat, and entering California by what is known as the old San Bernardino and Los Angeles road. That a railroad will one day in the not far off future be built over this route, seems manifest. Already the wants of the southern Utah settlements, Pahranagat and the Colorado traffic, point to such a road as even now a profitable investment. It would open up a country rich in agricultural and mineral resources, and whether it would materially interfere with the great central route or not, it would command a large share of through traffic, certainly in the winter season. With this road in operation to Southern California, no such blockade as now exists in the Sierras would ever again occur. We might smile at the howling storms as our locomotive rushed along over a level country and through a sunny clime.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—A very sad and painful accident occurred to-day on Second street, while firing a salute, by which three men were seriously burned. The circumstances, as near as we can get them, are as follows: Marshal Keeler, Charles Pohl and W. Richter were engaged in firing a salute from anvils. Pohl had two cans in his hands—one containing five pounds of coarse and the other three pounds of fine powder. After firing, Pohl was in the act of pouring the powder into the anvil, when it was ignited by fire which remanded from the last discharge, and both cans exploded, horribly burning his face, arms and hands, and set his clothes on fire. Marshall Keeler and Richter were holding an anvil in their hands at the time of the explosion, and they, too, were badly burned. Richter's clothes caught fire and they had to be torn from his body by the by-standers before the fire could be extinguished. His hands and face are badly burned, so much so that the flesh of one of his hands was perfectly crisped and fell off. His neck and face are not so badly burned as Pohl's. Keeler had his clothes burned off him. His hands are badly burned, but his face is less injured than either of the others. Drs. Brooks, Jackson and Mitchell dressed the wounds, but it is not yet known to what extent the men are injured.—Dalles Mountaineer, 23d ult.

New York, March 10.

The Fenian excitement continues unabated. Numerous donations have been accepted for the Widows and Orphans Fund, the funds hundreds who offered as volunteers have been refused. An enthusiastic meeting of Irish-American citizens was held in Masonic Hall last night. The Fenians in Washington and elsewhere are moving in the matter of aid to the men at the front.

Nineteen steamships sailed from this port yesterday, for Europe, Central America, the West Indies, and coastwise, carrying 1,000 passengers and $670,000 currency. The Nicaragua steamer took 400 U. S. troops.

New York, March 10.

Washington specials state that General Grant had an interview with the President yesterday, when, it is supposed, the question of military appointments under the Reconstruction law was thoroughly discussed. General Grant is believed to have completed a set of instructions, and to have submitted them to the President and the Secretary of War.

Wilson's bill supplementary to the Military Government Act has been approved by the Judiciary Committees of both Houses, and will probably pass.

A prominent Senator has received positive information from three Southern States, that they will immediately proceed to organize State Governments under the Military Government law, and it is now confidently asserted that all the Southern States will be reorganized under its provisions and be admitted to their former relations in the Union by the 1st of January next.

Accounts from Alabama and Georgia represent that the destitution is greater than has heretofore been stated. Deaths from starvation are reported in Alabama, while a leading paper in Georgia estimates the total number of starving people there at not less than 50,000.

Washington, March 10.

Since March 1st, 926 freedmen from the District of Columbia have been provided homes in the North-West and South.

A new trial has been denied Sanford Conover, the perjurer.

A. F. Lee, the Treasury clerk who absconded with $38,000 in treasury bonds, has been brought to Washington, and has made a full confession, averring that the theft was not premeditated, but committed while on a spree. All but $900 of the money was recovered.

Senator Morton, of Indiana, in a speech last night to a serenading party, alluded to the Military Government bill. He hoped the President would execute the law in its letter and spirit. The South would make a great mistake if they refused to abide by the law.

Speaker Colfax, being called for, indorsed Morton's remarks on the Reconstruction subject. Congress had opened a door to restore the Southern States to civil and political power. But Congress had said to them: "You shall come back clothed in new robes of liberty and justice; you shall be led by faithful men into the Union which you despised in your fancied triumph of a miserable Confederacy. Those who listened to him would say, as the country would say—those who love the flag shall rule the country."

A Corfu telegram of Feb. 25th states, on Greek authority, that 8,000 Turks were defeated on the 13th and 14th, in the western portion of Crete, losing two guns and many prisoners. The Turks were also beaten on the 11th and 12th of February in another part of the Island.

A New Orleans telegram to the Herald says the Louisiana House of Representatives concurred in Senate resolution appointing a committee to protest against the Reconstruction bill.

Charges have been preferred against Governor Wells, in the Louisiana House, for usurpation in issuing his recent proclamation, and his impeachment is probable.

Mayor Monroe, the Lieutenant Governor, and others had an interview with General Sheridan regarding the right of negroes to vote at the approaching election in New Orleans, and were informed that if the negroes were not permitted to vote the election would be null and void.

Washington, March 10.

The French Foreign Minister, under date Paris, February 19th, writes Secretary Seward, expressing much good feeling towards the United States. The following is a translation of that portion of the note referring to Mexico:

"We sought redress for grievances of every description, and for injustice from which our people had suffered for many years. And animated by that generous sentiment which will always induce France to render her intervention useful wherever she shall be led to carry her arms, we did not refuse terms by which all interests would have profited, but in lending co-operation to this work of government, the Emperor had assigned beforehand limits to its sacrifices, and the Emperor had fixed the end of the present year as the extreme term of our military occupation. The evacuation was to have been in three detachments, the first leaving in November, 1866, the second in March, and the third in November, 1867. These arrangements were conformable to our previous intention. But reasons arising out of changed circumstances determined the Emperor to substitute for partial evacuations a simultaneous transportation home of the whole corps in the spring of the present year. These measures are now in course of execution, and in the month of March next our troops will have left Mexico. Far from desiring to free itself from engagements which it has contracted on its own account, and which it has publicly announced, the government of the Emperor will hasten their fulfillment.

New Orleans, March 10.

Trouble being apprehended in case the municipal election is allowed to be held next Monday, General Sheridan has issued an order directing that no polls be opened for that day, and that the election be postponed until the District Commander under the new law shall have been appointed, or special instructions covering the case are received from Washington.

New York, March 11.

A Times special thus states the situation in New Orleans prior to General Sheridan's order prohibiting the holding of the city election: There being indications of a riot, General Sheridan made all necessary preparations to quell any disturbance. He has four regiments, two batteries, and a battalion of cavalry in the city, ready to take a hand in case of hostilities breaking out. The trouble originated in the fact that Governor Wells, recognizing the Reconstruction Act, considered the State Government reduced to a provisional establishment, and himself as Military Governor only. The Municipal authorities, however, didn't recognize this change, inasmuch as the Reconstruction law had not yet been received in an official form, and Mayor Monroe and Chief of Police Adams ordered the police to obey no orders but such as were issued by them. An election for City Councilmen was to take place on Monday, and Governor Wells in his proclamation ordered that the freedmen enfranchised by the Reconstruction bill should vote, while the Mayor held that they were still disfranchised and ordered that they should not vote. Here was the opportunity for a repetition of former riots; but Sheridan's order postponing the election until the appointment of the District Commander, or the receipt of special instructions from Washington, has restored order.

Under a more careful reading, the Military Government Act does not seem to require that District Commanders shall be Generals in the Regular Army; therefore Sickles is eligible. There is reason to believe that Generals Sherman, Hancock, Schofield and Sickles will be four of the five Commanders selected.

New York, March 11.

The Times' Washington special says it is understood that General Butler will to-morrow offer in the House a resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire if a civil officer can hold his office, or must be suspended therefrom, during his trial on impeachment.

John Minor Botts has written a letter, under date of March 7th, to a prominent Congressman, in which he states that the rebel Legislature of Virginia will designate the first Tuesday in May for the Constitutional Convention; that the rebel forces are thoroughly organized, and will certainly control the Convention unless a registry law and provision for voting by ballot are secured at the present session of Congress. He says that not one-fifth of the colored people in Virginia are aware of their right to vote at the coming election, He and the Union men of Virginia implore Congress not to adjourn without providing the legislation suggested.

One of the provisions of an Act passed during the last hours of the 39th Congress, provides that the United States Marshal for the District of Columbia shall be appointed by the Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, instead of by the President as hitherto.

An effort will be made in the present Congress to create a joint committee on ordnance, it being alleged that the system at present enforced in the Ordnance Department is ruinous to all attempts at improvement in that branch of the service.

The Herald's special says it is given out that the President has made up his mind to enforce the Military Government bill, and will not offer objections or cause delays of any kind to its operations. Thus this much talked of matter has been finally settled.

Messrs. Ould and Crump have returned to Virginia. Before leaving Washington they were advised by the President not to call any Convention, but to leave that duty to the District Commander. This will defeat the Convention bill in the Virginia House of Assembly to-morrow.

BRIDGER PASS ROUTE.—Late arrivals from the west report the snow actually forty feet deep at points along the road about Bridger Pass. The stages pass over these immense depths with ease, but what will a railroad do in them? Just now the Union Pacific is snowed out of sight and use, on the level plains down the Platte. What will it do in those barren, timberless mountains, with ten times the snow that has fallen on the plains, and where it lays for eight months in the year. West of here the trails are still open and travel passes daily to and fro over the summit of the range. Only for a short distance is the snow a serious impediment, and this a railway would avoid by its tunnel, emerging on both sides in forests of timber, where the snow never drifts. A railway through Bridger Pass will be practically inoperative during from three to six months of the year.—Denver News.

COAL—PETROLEUM.—The Helena Gazette of March 2d says:

We have just been shown a letter from a prominent citizen of Deer Lodge, announcing the fact that a new discovery has been made in that country, of a vein of coal fifteen feet in thickness, and cropping out one and a half miles, and that a petroleum spring has been discovered in the same vicinity, producing the genuine oil in vast quantities. A company has been formed, which lays claim to these new discoveries, and already speculations are being made as to a market for coal at Helena. It was only such a discovery as this that was necessary to fill the cup of our prosperity to overflowing. Coal and coal oil in connection with the other minerals of Montana! These are the articles that will make this the richest country in the world! We have full faith in the report, and hope our friends in Deer Lodge will keep us posted.

From the North.

The following pleasing items we glean from the Helena Gazette, of March 2d:

FROM KOOTENAI RIVER.—On last Saturday we had the pleasure of a call from Mr. D. McNutt, formerly President of Helena, but who has been doing business in Grantsville, in the Salmon River mines during last fall and winter. Mr. McNutt left Grantsville on the 10th of February, and at that time he estimates that there were about four hundred men in the mining district. Snow in the mines was from four to six feet deep, and very little doing as a consequence. Supplies were getting short, and owing to the depth of the snow on the range between Salmon river and the mines,—which is some eighteen miles across,—it was impossible to get through with animals, and consequently altogether impracticable to get goods through. On his way in he met about one hundred miners en route for Grantsville, between Salmon river and Bannack, and some forty-five or fifty at Bannack, bound for the same destination. If men crowd in to the mines at this rate, it is the opinion of Mr. McNutt that there will be much suffering there on account of want of supplies before spring. There was an effort being made at the time he left to shovel the snow out of the trail across the range so as to admit of the bringing of goods, but he was of the opinion that the enterprise would be a failure, as he thinks the drift will fill it up faster than it can be cleared. It is the opinion of most of the miners in the district that the mines are very extensive, but as far as prospected nothing really "big" has been obtained. The country is said to much resemble the Boise Basin in appearance and general indications. It is known that there are ledges or lodes in the country, but up to the time he left there had been little or no attention paid to this species of property. Grantsville and Leesburgh, contrary to the generally received opinion here, Mr. McNutt informs us, is the same town.

BOILER EXPLOSION.—The Gold Hill News, of March 2d, has the following:

About half-past 10 o'clock this morning, a terrible explosion occurred in Lower Gold Hill, a short distance below the Petaluma mill, which shook the earth and alarmed the neighborhood. The steam boiler of the foundry had exploded, and death and destruction stared the people in the face. The building of the foundry consisted of a large wooden frame, about forty foot front, and a depth of perhaps fifty, two stories in hight. The engine had been stopped for a short time when the explosion occurred, and Peter Hagan, the engineer, who is one of the wounded, has since told us that he believed there was not more than forty pounds of steam in the boiler at the time. The effect of the explosion of the boiler was to almost entirely demolish the building, the ends and sides being blown out, and the roof merely hanging on a few timbers; the second story floor, with all its patterns and machinery falling down on the ground floor. The boiler was blown into pieces, a large fragment lodging several hundred feet distance, on the side of the hill back of the Petaluma mill. The steam drum also lodging near by this piece of boiler. There were fourteen men in the foundry building at the time of the explosion. James Hutchins, machinist, aged about 40 years, was instantly killed. He was in range of the boiler, perhaps twenty feet in front of the head that blew out, receiving the full force of the hot steam and gas. To say that the poor man was literally blown into frangments would be a near description of his awful looking remains. The head, from the eyes up, and down to his neck, was entirely blown off; the balance of his face is nothing but an unrecognizable black, charred mass; his body was torn open from the ribe to the pelvis, and his bowels protruding, black and burnt to a crisp; his back, arms and legs broken, and blackened, as though dragged from a burning furnace. Four men were severely wounded, and eight or nine slightly. The most seriously wounded is Andrew Hutchins, brother of the deceased, his wounds being in the side and head, and are considered quite serious, although the extent is not fully known. Mr. Hamilton, machinist, was injured in the back, and it is thought has a rib broken. Peter Hagan, the engineer, had a gash two inches long cut in the top of his head, (being a scalp wound,) and is also injured in his right arm, perhaps broken. Thomas Carroll, blacksmith, had his shoulder blade broken. Roger Carrigan, severely injured in the side. Doctor Hall was early at the scene of the calamity, and rendered good service to the wounded. The foundry was owned by A. L. Greely, of the Fulton Foundry, on the Divide, and the damage is quite heavy—consisting in the almost entire destruction of the building, the total loss of the engine, and other machinery; but the contents of the pattern shop, etc., we learn sustained but little injury.

FROM CORTEZ DISTRICT.—The Reveille, of March 5th, says:

We have just learned from J. A. Alvarez whose pack train arrived yesterday from Cortez District, that the snow was not deeper than eighteen inches to two feet when he left there. In Grass Valley it was of an average depth of ten inches. The snow was deeper in the pass through this Toiyabe range of mountains, and Alvarez was employed the whole of Sunday in breaking a trail for his train. He packed in to the Keystone mill ten tons of ore from the Taylor and Passmore, which he pronounces to be greatly superior to the lot brought in from the same mine in the month of February, and it will give a much higher yield. Mr. Palmer, the superintendent of the Mount Tenabo Company, is having the mill overhauled and repaired with the intention of opening it on or about the first of April. Work is being steadily prosecuted on the Cortez Giant of the company, and about 100 tons of ore are lying at the mine awaiting transportation to the mill. At present there is but one mode of carriage, and that is by pack mules, and Alvarez will return with his train at once to the district for the purpose of carrying the ore to the mill. Work in the extensive district is just now confined to the Cortez Giant and the Taylor and Passmore, but there is a good prospect that a number of other mines will be opened and developed the coming season.

FROM UMATILLA.—The Idaho World, of March 2d, takes the following items from the Umatilla Press, of February 16th:

Two of Taylor & Bound's six-mule teams, each laden with 5,000 lbs. of freight for Mr. Elliott, of Boise City, started from Umatilla on the 13th inst.

Twenty-one pack animals of Bradbury's train, laden with goods by J. R. Foster & Co., also started for Boise City.

H. S. Stone bought J. W. Hillman's corner lot and store in Umatilla for $5,000.

Lumber was selling off rapidly in Umatilla. That place, and the country back of it, is improving.

Captain Stump undertook to steam the small steamer Okanagan down the Cascades of the Columbia, a few days ago. She hit a rock, and had to await repairs.

The Press ably presents reasons why the Indians ought to be removed from the rich arable lands of the Umatilla Reservation, and that tract should be thrown open to white settlers.

A Mr. Blain has organized a party at the Dalles to prospect the headwaters of the Malheur and Powder rivers, this year. They are to start April 1st.

BULLION FROM TWIN RIVER.—The Belmont stage, which arrived in town last evening, brought nine bars of bullion, valued at $9,153.86, from the mill of the Twin River Company.—Reveille, 6th inst.

The Daily Union Vedette

Local and Miscellaneous.

ENTERPRISE.—The VEDETTE is the pioneer newspaper of Utah. Its extensive circulation in the mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, as it gives the telegraphic despatches a whole week ahead of the Pacific papers,) makes it the most desirable medium for advertising in these four Territories.

U. S. COURT.—The United States Court for the Third Judicial District of Utah Territory opened yesterday for the regular March term, Chief Justice Titus presiding. There was quite an array of all the legal talent of the city present on the occasion. The grand jury and petit jurors were duly sworn in. The charge of the Judge to the grand jurors was very impressive, and their duty to investigate the several murders and other offences, which have occurred since the adjournment of the last term of Court, was strongly urged upon them. The Judge commented extensively on the murder of Dr. Robinson, and said notwithstanding the Coroner's jury had failed to fix the blame on any one, still it was their bounden duty to trace out if possible who were the perpetrators. After a few cases were disposed of, by way of postponement, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock A. M. to-day.

EXPLANATION.—To our utter astonishment and regret, we learn that the "Hat" article which appeared in our local columns yesterday, was misinterpreted, and that the character of a respectable and worthy merchant and citizen. We desire to say, that having always entertained the kindest and respectful feelings towards that gentleman, we would have as soon that ourhand should have been the subject of ridicule. We positively assert that he was not the individual alluded to; nor was it intended for any merchant of the city. We make this explanation in justice to him, and in vindication of ourselves.

PLEASANT DRIVE.—Saturday being a day of leisure, we were greatly surprised by a call from Mr. Brewer, the accommodating proprietor of the carriage (we won't call it a hack), to take us at our office and invited all hands to ride to the Sulphur Springs. The invitation, of course, accepted, and a pleasant ride we had. Mr. Brewer can be found at the corner of Main and Second South streets at all hours, and those who desire a comfortable conveyance to any part of the city would do well to give him a call.

SNOWS.—The storms East and West of us keep our mails back. It is so long since we have received our Western or Eastern exchanges, that we have almost forgotten their dates. If it were not for the telegraph we would be ignorant of what is transpiring on the Atlantic or Pacific States. We think it will not be long before our enterprising contractor will succeed in remedying the evil. Till then we must have patience and hope.

The World opposes the promotion of Gen. Stoneman to be Major General by brevet in the regular army, because he wasted the public money in Arizona. It is credibly informed that the promotion is displeasing to General Sheridan, who more than once removed Carleton from command, and Stanton restoring him. The motion comes from Stanton.

WEATHER.—Yesterday the day opened with sunshine; during the day there was a strong effort to get up a snow storm, but for the sun sank to rest in all its splendor with strong indications of permanent fine weather.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Yesterday, between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock, a carpenter, by the name of Grist, fell from the roof of Mr. Clawson's store and broke one of his legs near the thigh.

HEAVY SNOW.—A gentleman who arrived yesterday from the South, informs us that on the last snow fell at Provo to the depth of six inches.

SILVER.—In the vaults of the Bank of Utah, Gold Hill, there are several tons of bullion waiting shipment over the mountains.

Barley and Oats wanted at the Revere, east of Emigration Square, in exchange for wood and coal. 3t

We have frequently been questioned in relation to the routes to Lemhi, and specially if it is best to go by way of Virginia City, Montana, or coming up in East-Idaho. If the stage route from Salt Lake to Virginia City has not been changed within the last year, the advertisement of Messrs. F. & Co. is an absurdity. East Gallatin is some seventy-five miles this way from Virginia City and nearer Lemhi, and on a better route, hence the folly of taking passage to Virginia City and back—one hundred and fifty miles useless travel. Packers, and all on foot men need not necessarily go to Bannack, but go directly north from the Virginia Trail where it strikes the Three Forks. We have no doubt but a much better route than that will be opened up soon from the Missouri river and the divide of its head waters to those of the South Fork of Salmon. There have been many prospecting parties through the Lemhi Basin directly through to Lemhi again during the past four years, and no doubt a good trail will soon be worn there. Let us notice over that portion of country. Fall up—"you pays your money and takes your choice."—Owyhee Avalanche.

GOLD MINES.—From the best information we can collect it seems now pretty certain that the mines are going to be the principal objects for the migratory miners this spring. Letter exchanges from different parts of the country begin to notice the departure of some, and the preparation of others to go to the new mines on Salmon; and from abroad, particularly in California, we learn there will be a strong emigration to this State this spring. The Salt Lake Telegraph says the excitement in relation to the Salmon mines is on the increase in that city, many parties are going from there. The Columbia river route of travel is already beginning to be a stir in this direction, which a month later will swell to the usual spring rush. There is a good deal of a large increase of the population of that country during the year 1867, and a rapid development of her mineral resources.—Statesman.

A NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS.—Shakspeare's delineation of Sir Giles Overreach's plan of liquidation of old debts is thrown completely in the shade by a lawyer of Virginia City, Nevada. The local of the Enterprise thus describes the plan:

AN AMERICAN PAYMASTER.—Sometime since a limb of the law in this city got on a bit of a bender—couldn't say "truly rural" without laughing. During his "bender" he bought, "on tick," a meerschaum pipe, for which he agreed to give $25, of a dealer whom we will call Luxum. Luxum called in about a week at the lawyer's office and presented his little bill. "Can't pay to-day," said Blackstone; "call again." Luxum called again and again—kept calling—all for nothing, but to listen to divers ingeniously invented excuses. Luxum begun to think it mighty "'ard"—Luxum is Hinglish—and got to saying very annoying things to Blackstone. After giving Blackstone a short respite Luxum again made his appearance. He was full of wrath and was bound to have satisfaction—there was blood in "his hi." "Hi want you to settle this 'ere bill—hat once, too. Hi've worn hout sho'leather henough running hafter hit," he began. Turning slowly and solemnly towards Luxum, Blackstone cried out, in a hoarse, stage-villain voice—"Who are you, sir? what bill are you talking of?" "You know me well hanough, hand you know what the bill is for; pay me." "You are mistaken, sir; I know you not. As for your bill, it is likely I may owe you a bill. I owe every man in the city. Again I ask you what is your name, sirrah?" "Hi protest this his nonsense; you know my name well hanough." "Your name!" in thundrous tones. "Well, hif hi must, hits Luxum." "Luxum—Luxum—'tis well! Comes in the Ls. Mr. Luxum, I am owing everybody, as I told you, that is true; but I am also going to pay everybody I owe. To facilitate this purposed liquidation and prevent confusion, I have made an alphabetical list of the names of my creditors, and am paying them according to the position of their names in said list. I am now in the Bs, Mr. Luxum; your name belongs in the Ls. When I get down to L I will pay you. Mr. Luxum, good day; you can go. (Voice raising.) 'Leave here, d—n you!" Luxum departed on the double-quick. To this day Luxum thinks of Blackstone's bill with sadness. "No use," he says, "the bloody thief won't never get to hell!"

AN INSTANCE OF PERSEVERANCE.—One morning during the late war an officer, riding through the woods of North Alabama, was attracted by a tall, lank countryman, who seemed to be using his best endeavors to reach the top of a large hickory tree. Scarcely had he gained the summit, when rapidly descending, he started up another one a few yards off. This strange proceeding was continued at least a dozen times, the countryman climbing and descending one tree after another for nearly a quarter of a mile. The officer at length overtaking him inquired the cause of his eccentric gyrations. "I was lyin' asleep under yon hickory, when a darned squirrel dropped a shellbark into my eye; I'm goin' to worry him till he leaves the settlement, if I die in the attempt."

TIDINGS FROM THE DUTCH FLAT ROUTE.—The Carson Appeal of March 1st says:

Mr. Robert Logan, an employee on the railroad, left a place about three miles from Donner Lake on the Dutch Flat route, on Sunday last, and arrived in Carson yesterday. He represents the snow at about fifteen feet deep on the Summit. Several snow slides had occurred, killing, he thinks, about thirty Chinamen, at different camps. At one camp ten had been dug out—three of them alive. The last communication they had with Cisco was a week ago last Tuesday. There have been no fatal accidents on the railroad, so far as Mr. Logan knows, to white men.

ACCIDENTS AT SKATING PARKS.—It is announced from England that, in order to prevent a repetition of the recent sad disaster at the Regent's Park, in London, the water in it, and all similar inclosures, is to be reduced to a moderate depth. In this particular the English are copying the American system; for our skating parks, as a general rule, are so shallow that nothing more serious than a wetting of the lower portions of the body can result from the breaking of the ice.

A DENIAL.—The Santo Fe Gazette says: Any assertion or intimation that General Carleton writes editorials for this paper, or is in any way connected with its management, is untrue and without any foundation in fact. We write our own articles and are alone responsible for them.

THE COLDEST NIGHT.—Last night was the coldest of the winter, says the Reese River Reveille, of March 5th, and at 7 A. M. the mercury was only two degrees above zero. At 2 P. M. it stood at 28 degrees. There was a moderate thaw during midday.

JUSTICE FOR EGAN CANYON.—At the session of the Board of County Commissioners, held March 5th, Mr. John O'Dougherty, Superintendent of the Social and Steptoe Company, was appointed Justice of the Peace for Township No. 7, Egan Canyon.—Reveille.

The nine prisoners indicted for murder in the Cave gulch tragedy, arrived yesterday from Diamond City, in charge of the Sheriff of Meagher county, Ed. Lovelock, and deputy Chas. Manley, and were placed in the Edgerton county jail.

A pack train of about forty animals left Helena on last Monday for Salmon river, but it is altogether probable from present reports that they will be unable to reach the mines, on account of the heavy snow on the range between Salmon river and Grantsville.

Turnley's mill, on its last clean-up, made returns of $6,424.45 from 90 tons of Union rock—an average of $71.23 per ton.

MR. CHARLES A. DANA'S new paper is to be styled "The New York Chronicle," and is to be started on a solid cash capital of $200,000.

No peaches next season in Western New York. The cold weather has killed them.

In suits from Anker's Hall;
And none, as yet, was heard to regret,
That he ever gave him a call.
He honestly deals,
And nothing conceals.
Regarding the wear of his clothes,
But speaks with the truth,
To man and to youth,
Which each of his customers knows.
Hence, friends, one and all,
Go to Anker's Hall,
Walk boldly—don't cowardly creep.
For there you'll find,
All obliging and kind,
With Clothing tremendously cheap.

The citizens of Utah, Idaho and Montana are at all times cordially invited to call at ANCHOR'S POPULAR CLOTHING HOUSE, when in Denver, and examine his most Elegant and Tasteful Stock of Goods, which will be sold at Prices Guaranteed Lower than the Lowest.
